

S&T minister inaugurates DST pavilion at Pragati Maidan

Science and Technology minister Dr Harsh Vardhan inaugurated the pavilion of Department and Science Technology at the India International Trade Fair(IITF), at Pragati Maidan in Delhi on Friday.

"The pavilion has a beautiful blend of different research activities being carried out in various laboratories under DST. The work done by the scientists in these laboratories will help in making the dreams of our Prime Minister come true because and science is an integral part of the society," Dr Vardhan said.

The work being done by the ministry is in tune with providing affordable solutions to the various problems of the people of our country, Dr Vardhan said adding: " I would make a request to the children, youth and all those committed to science should visit the pavilion . "

Secretary, Science and Technology Ashutosh Sharma was also present

The stalls in the pavilion have showcased the work done by the institutes under the DST.